Ruth K. Lockett

We, the Class of 1984, wish to dedicate our edition of the La Torre to Mrs. Ruth K. Lockett for the four years of patience and time she has given to us.

Mrs. Lockett, a native of Leesburg, was born on February 25, 1947 to Tim and Virginia Knowles. She attended Lee Elementary and Leesburg High School, where she swam for the swim team. In 1965, she graduated from LHS. Later that year she entered the University of Florida, graduating in 1969 with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Though they both lived in Leesburg all of their lives, Mrs. Lockett did not meet her husband, Jerry T. Lockett, until Christmas, 1967 at a dinner party given by his parents. On December 28, 1968 they were married.

Since 1980 Mrs. Lockett has taught Adv. English 10 and Adv. American Literature here at LHS. She has also taken on the enormous job of yearbook sponsor.

Through the course of her four years at LHS, she has had most of us in class and therefore she has come to know us individually and as a whole. She has given countless hours of her time to help us with both academic as well as personal problems. We have had many fun times with her at such events as Journalism workshop. Overall, she's been a great teacher, but most importantly, a true friend.

FROM US TO YOU: Thanks for everything!

DISCOVER JACKET . . .

Discovering Jackets with style was found in many different ways. One way was through their spirit. Each week during the football season the cheerleaders had a theme and the student body dressed accordingly. Some of the themes were: Undercover, Camouflage, Beat Lake Weir NO Sweat, and Burn Forest.

Another way to discover Jackets with style was through their everyday dress. Punk was the hairstyle. For the guys, there were such styles as muscle shirts, button-down shirts with ties, Levi's, and loafers. For the girls, fashion accessories were a must. For example, they wore such items as big, bright earrings, wide belts, and low leather pumps. Oxford shirts, Izods, pleated pants, and pin-striped jeans were also in style. Like the guys, the girls also wore muscle shirts.

Finally, music was the last way to discover Jacket style. They listened to such groups as The Fixx, Loverboy, Michael Jackson, Quiet Riot, and The Police. Some students went to Rock Superbowl XIX at the Tangerine Bowl on October 29th to see The Fixx and The Police in concert. Earlier, others went to see Quiet Riot and Loverboy. These were the ways to discover Jackets in STYLE.

Seniors stack up more spirit points by winning the "People Pyramid" competition.

SPIRIT

DISCOVER JACKET...

Coming back to school was an exhilarating experience for students at Leesburg High. A new anticipation to start the 1983-1984 school year could be felt by students and teachers alike. Jacket Spirit was evident in both the academic and the extracurricular activities in which students were frequently participating.

Around the halls of Leesburg High, the students were seen proclaiming devoted love and pride for their school. For many this would be the last time to ever travel down these halls. Yet the times spent will be remembered in the hearts of students for years to come.

The officers planned many important activities this year, focusing their attention on getting senior privileges established. The homecoming activities went very smoothly thanks to the leadership of: Kerri Ryan—president, Donita Martin—vice president, Annette Shields—treasurer, and Sandy Klingler—secretary. The senior class received the spirit trophy for most spirit shown during homecoming week. Thanks to the officers and the senior class sponsor, Mr. Bush, the year was a huge success and a fantastic ending to their high school years.

WE MADE IT!

IN MEMORY

Gregory Bryan Batt

We the Class of 1984 wish to remember a friend and a fellow classmate. Words can not express the sadness of the tragic passing of Gregory Bryan Batt. Those who knew Greg found him to be a fun-loving but at the same time a serious student. When Greg unexpectedly passed away a part of us went with him and a part of him left a void in each one of us.

Because of the size of our community, the loss of a life, especially a young one, touches the hearts of all its citizens. We the students of Leesburg High School mourn his loss.

Heather Marie Hayes

It is always hard to accept the passing of a friend, but it is the memory of that person we will always treasure. To those of us who knew her, Heather Marie Hayes was an inspiration. She was always there to work, to lead, to question, and to listen. She committed her life to making the most of every minute.

Those of us who were associated with her on the yearbook staff will always remember her dedication and determination to make everything she strove to do a success. The 1983 La Torre that she edited will always serve as her commitment to excellence.

Those of us who knew her as a friend knew her to be a kind and understanding person who was always ready to help and willing to do more than what was expected. She had that special ability to make everyone feel important. She possessed all the characteristics that are embodied in a true friend.

The memory of such a dear friend and beautiful person will live in our hearts forever. We can only be grateful for the time we shared with her.

The Junior Executive Board, Inc.

Junior class officers: Tonya Meeks—president, Chauna Johnson—vice-president, Laura Singer—secretary, and Jessica Torrence—treasurer

This year the junior class was very involved even though it wasn't very big. The junior class showed spirit and an enormous amount of pride for their school. Whenever there was a football game or pep rally or most anything, the juniors could be found

As the 1983-1984 school year got under way, the elections for the junior class began. The candidates stayed busy during that week putting up posters and campaigning. Tonya Meeks, who was running for the office of president, was unopposed so she won the seat automatically. Chauna Johnson, who was running for vice-president, made a very confident speech that won her the position. Laura Singer also ran unopposed for the job of secretary. Running for the job of treasurer was Jessica Torrence. Her speech proved her to be the best person for the job.

With officers elected, the junior class was now able to get started on some fundraisers to earn money for their prom. With the help of Mrs. Deborah Williams and the junior class as a whole, the prom was a tremendous success.

Juniors show lot's of enthusiasm about candy sales.

As every class that has gone before, this year's junior class strove to support the upcoming prom. This tradition caused the juniors to discover new ways to earn money. The candy sale at the beginning of the year produced a large sum of money which was a good start. South Pacific which was put on by the chorus and the junior class also proved to be a smashing success.

The barbecue dinner that took place the night of the Leesburg-Eustis game helped to raise more money. In addition to these efforts, the famous carnation sales created another mode for fundraising which the juniors incorporated in their efforts. Through their tremendous efforts the Junior Senior Prom ended as a night to remember.

Cramming While Jamming

There were many interesting ways the juniors found to study. Many students showed it when exam time came around.

Many students could be found studying in the library or on the benches outside the main building, and in the lunchroom, while their food usually got all over their books. There were also some students who finished their last minute assignments writing on someone's back while walking to class.

While much of the homework was done at school, many students restricted their studying to home. They could cram for one of Mrs. Clendinen's tests while watching the "A Team" or while listening to the radio at work and just about any other place imaginable.

The results, of course, were usually pretty good. Mr. Wiley and "Mr. T" were proud of these hard working students.

The Class of '85 was very active this year. Not only did the students go to school, but many of them held jobs. Keeping their grades up and working was a big responsibility and the students handled it well.

Some of the hardworking juniors were Michelle Fortin, Son Vu, Lisa Woolwine, Merry Theobald, Kris Lingerfelt, Leslie Barilone, Mike Woodley, Timmy Weaver, Charolette Baker, and Lisa Snook.

Since most of the juniors were just turning 16, the ones that worked usually saved their money for a car. As the 1983-1984 school year started out, everyday there were new additions to the junior parking lot. There were Amy Jasmanki and Mary Faber's Hondas along with Robby Mercer and Sherry Grounland's Mustangs. While Charolette Baker's MG didn't take up much space, Sam Hewitt, Clint Burgess, and Jeff Tedder's trucks made up for that. There were also William James' Capri and Jac Gelb's Gremlin just to name a few more.

If they weren't saving their money for a car, it was usually saved for gas, the weekend, clothes, or college. The juniors that worked and saved their money really did their parents a favor when it came time to go to college.

The fall tapping of the new National Honor Society members created an air of anxiety for certain students. These select few achieve this recognition as a result of years of diligent work and respectable accomplishments. Although they receive this honor, they must continue with their exceptional work in order to stay in this elite club. Throughout each nine weeks, the members were required to earn a certain number of points which they accumulated by serving the club. These points were earned by working at the concession stand, bake sale, or numerous other ways. In spite the fact that these students were rewarded for their efforts, they continued to work in order to serve the club and most importantly, serve themselves.

This year there were many outstanding junior athletes. Participating in sports was an extra-curricular activity and the students had to maintain a C average or better, in order to stay on the team.

Many juniors that could be found on the tennis courts everyday practicing for matches were: Tammi Etheredge, Mary Faber, Rodney Padgett, and Randy Alvut. These players had good seasons with their coaches Mr. Cassidy and Mrs. Mullen.

There were many junior boys that kept showing up at school with their hair shorter and shorter. These boys were just getting ready for baseball season and Coach Lowe obviously got a hold of them with his famous "Buddy Lowe Special." Many of these players included: Mike Saylor, Jeff Valentine, Mike Woodley, Jac Gelb, Todd Bolling, Robbie Mercer, and Sam Hewitt. These boys practiced many hard hours to give Leesburg Baseball a winning season.

The swim team, "The Sting," once again had an excellent season. Junior swimmers Robbie Burnsed and Stephanie Phillips dedicated an enormous amount of hard work to help the team achieve victory.

The volleyball team did exceptionally well. They had a record of 7-11. The team included junior players Keturah Roberts and Jennifer Robinson.

JUNIORS WITH JACKET SPIRIT

Like most schools with a great football team, there was a lot of Jacket Spirit. But the most spirit was in the Class of '85. Not only was the junior class the smallest but also the 'loudest'.

At every pep rally cheers such as: "Let's Go, Let's Go," "Jacket Power," and "Gooooo Jackets" could be heard coming from the junior section of the gym. Some of the juniors who were usually seen dressed up on Fridays were: Julie Frost, Kim Crane, Becky Kinder and Sandi Seibel.

For the Eustis game the Varsity Cheerleaders gave one person from every class a cup, hankie, and a free ticket to the game. The junior winner was Stephanie Phillips.

Not only do the juniors have great spirit, but also the junior mascot—Kim Crane and the junior cheerleaders—Tammi Etheredge, Marv Faber, Chauna Johnson, Shannon Mack, Vanessa Fuller, Bronwyn Talley, and Jennifer Pearce.

The junior class was the proudest so remember, "Keep up the great work Juniors!"

We're all here

The Class of '85 might of been the smallest on campus this year but there was a very good reason. When this class was halfway through their Sophomore year they were hit with a list of promotion and graduation requirements. This list included a requirement whereby a student would not be promoted into the 11th grade without a minimum of 11 credits

On this was also a list of four different diplomas from which to choose. The highest possible was academic scholar. This diploma was impossible for most juniors to achieve since they were halfway through high school. The academic college preparatory, the second highest, was one of the popular ones for which the students chose to strive. There was also academic general and academic vocational.

The juniors must be given credit for their hard work and good attitudes towards these new requirements

Homecoming Junior Style

This year's spirit week during homecoming was filled with much enthusiasm. Tuesday was teacher mock day and Kim Crane participated with no trouble. She came dressed as Mrs. Hand and without planning it they wore the exact same outfits. Wednesday was nerd day. Tonya Meeks was seen being laughed at by the entire student body. Thursday was Hawaiian day and the parade. The junior class float was an exact example of what a day at the beach was like. Ron Korte and Rodney Padgett were seen riding down Main Street on this excellent float. Friday was orange and black day. Many of the juniors such as Julie Frost, Sandi Seibel, Laura Singer, and Amy Jasmanki as well as the cheerleaders and football players were in orange and black. Mr. Wiley allowed the school to have an hour long pep rally. The game ball was brought by two parachuters from Fruitland Park.

Friday night during halftime the homecoming court was announced as they marched out on the field. The attendants for the juniors were Sam Hewitt and Shannon Mack. Shannon was escorted by Jim Sloan and Sam was escorted by his mother.

The dance after the game was a big success. Many juniors and their dates that attended were Michelle Fortin and Tim Griner, Tonya Meeks and Mike Smith, Bronwyn Taley and Travis Engle.

Play is Fun When Work is Done

Though much of the time was spent in school, the juniors had no trouble finding things to do when school was out. During most of the weekday afternoons the juniors could be found at the library trying to get a last minute term paper done.

When school was out on Friday, students could be found most everywhere. Usually on Friday nights the juniors were at football games. The juniors leading the stands in cheers were: Tonya Meeks, Laura Singer and Ron Korte.

On Saturday afternoons ski beach was always filled with juniors either skiing, hydros liding, or sunbathing. David Panilio's boat was one of the popular ones to pull the skiers while John Morgan, Clint Burgess and David himself were always eager to be pulled.

Also, on Saturday the juniors who could be found heading off to the Gator games were Tammi Etheredge, Becky Kinder, Stephanie Phillips, and Charolette Baker. Most of the Seminole fans usually stuck by their TVs watching the game.

A popular activity among the guys was hunting. Guys who could be found in their camouflage with their guns all packed on the truck were: Robby Mercer, Sam Hewitt, and Causey Lunn.

Another favorite pastime shared among most all juniors was the many concerts held in Orlando. Some of the people who went were Michelle Fortin, Kim Crane, Mike Nathanson, and Sandi Seible.

With the weekend still young, many juniors were found hanging around McDonald's parking lot on Saturday night or going to the movies out at the mall.

The juniors kept very busy with their social life as represented by the amount of activities in which they involved themselves. The juniors sure did know how to keep busy!

This year there was much excitement around the basketball season. The season ended with a 14-4 record, the first time since 1977. For many junior players, it was their first year in varsity. The little experience sure didn't show when the boys were out on the field. Some of the players were Sam Hewitt, Andre Graham, Jeff Valentine, Clint Burgess, Robby Mercer, and Sammy Simmons. These boys worked very hard and were already looking forward to next year.

This year's cheerleaders were also very active. The cheerleaders included juniors Shannon Mack, Jennifer Pearce, Tammi Etheridge, Mary Faber, Chauna Johnson, Bronwyn Tate, and Vanessa Fuller. They worked very hard to prepare pep rallies and promote school spirit. The mascot, also a junior, Kim Crane, took part in every activity from football games to pep rallies to basketball games. With such spirited enthusiasm, the crowd couldn't help but take part in her dancing and yelling with the cheerleaders.

Dorenda Looney—vice-president; Sandy Viola—secretary; Tina Beatty—treasurer

Although the sophomore class officers were involved in many other activities, they put their class above everything else. Two of their main goals were to work on class unity and getting people involved. They often held large class meetings to contact more sophomores. One of the reasons they worked so hard was that they believed in the people for whom they were working. When asked what class was the best, they would surely reply "The Class of '86!"

Shining Through!

Sophomores shine at assembly

Students perform

The mighty class of '86 showed their spirit throughout the year. Many of the sophomores got involved like never before. After working so hard on their projects for home coming, they received a first place for their plot which showed a Jacket wiping out a hurricane. The sophomores were the only class to participate in the making of a spirit window, as a result they received first place. Second place went to the sophomores for their skit, which was a narrated version of the Jackets victory over the Hurricanes. When it came to building a pyramid, raising spirit, the sophomores dove right in. When all of the sophomores' projects were put together, they gave one message to the Jackets WIPE 'EM OUT"

Craving the hour*

When the last bell rang on Friday afternoons, each sophomore made a mad dash for the door. The weekend had started! Many
ball games on Friday nights. These devoted jacket fans helped to cheer the Mighty Jackets on to a winning season! The sophomores were also avid supporters of the dances which were held after the football games.

Saturday nights were spent by the sophomores at popular hang-outs such as the mall or McDonald's. Sundays were spent catching up on homework and cramming for tests.
Overall, the Class of '86 proved to the rest of the student body that they knew how to have

Dance corps at the gym

The 1983-84 school year was a successful one for the Class of '86. Many goals were attained, and new ones were set. As the upcoming junior class, these students have taken on a certain maturity for which they are to be commended. The sophomore Class of '86 have proven to be promising and dependable as the future leaders of LHS!

The sophomore football players and cheerleaders worked as one toward a goal which they all had in common, and that goal was success! Their good sportmanship and positive attitudes were the unifying factors in this effort

Among the outstanding sophomore players were: Kerry Cole, Scott Parrish, and Howard Hewitt. The sophomore cheerleaders were: Tandy Lawrence, Janna Adams, Christy Throckmorton, Carla Klingler, Cindy Franklin, and Tracie Guthrie

Another advantage was the loyal Jacket fans. Without their support and encouragement, the attempt for success would have been a futile one. The effort put forth by all proved that the Class of '86 has true Jacket Spirit!

Freshman Officers

The Class of '87 started off their high school career right by electing four dependable class officers. In the seat of president was Doug Moffett. Kathleen Young came in as vice-president with Christy Nicholas beside her as secretary. Elected as treasurer was Pam Godfrey.

In order to get a good beginning for their treasury, the freshman officers devised a class sponsor program. Individuals made a ten dollar donation and were listed on a special page in the La Torre. Each member of the freshman student body approached people of the Leesburg community for a small donation to the freshman class. This and many other fund raisers such as car washes, dances, and bakesales went towards the further advancement of the freshman budget.

The freshman homecoming started out with a fun filled and action packed week. Many of the students participated in each of the Spirit Days. Tuesday was teacher mock day. Although there weren't many people who got involved those who did went all out. Wednesday was nerd day. There were nerds all over campus. Along with Thursday being Hawaiian day, it was also the day of the homecoming parade.

All you could see for miles away was the freshman spirit truck. Later on that evening was the judging of the piñatas, skits, and floats. Although the freshmen did not place in the skit and float competition, but they did walk away proudly with a third place in the piñata competition.

Finally the night everyone had been waiting for arrived. On the field, representing the freshmen class, was Kathleen Young and Tom Kent. Their dates were Steve Madden and Heather Clements. All of the freshmen seemed to be enjoying the excitement of their first homecoming at LHS.

New Faces On Campus

This year as always there were many new faces on campus. Quite a few of the new faces became well known. Being new it was difficult at first to participate in the activities. The faces of '87 showed exceptional spirit at the pep rallies. People were always at the game cheering on the Jackets.

The new faces adjusted well to the new atmosphere. The freshmen also involved themselves in many activities. Dennis Martin joined the band. Carol Dannelly was on the Stinger Staff. Kathleen Young participated in J.V. Cheerleading. Dawn Fort got into the Dance Corp. The new faces of '87 enjoyed a new experience and made many new friends along the way.

What Are Weekends Made For?

This year the freshmen found it easy to get involved and join in on a lot of fun activities both on and off campus.

You could tell they knew where all the action was on the weekends when you saw them cheering the Jackets on to victory. After the games, they were spotted getting down to the beat of the music with many other students.

Any other action around town would draw the attention of the freshmen, whether it was going to a party, taking in a movie, or just walking around the mall.

The freshmen gathered at the traditional hangout, McDonald's, around 10:00 pm. While there they found rides to the various other activities going on around town. After midnight you could find the freshmen slowly returning home for a good night's sleep to be ready for the next night of fun.

Freshmen Ahead of the Gang

Although biology was not offered as a separate honors course for advanced ninth graders, many freshmen still participated in the biology program. The biology courses were taught by Mrs. Read and Dr. Branham. The students observed as well as performed experiments. They also went to the Limnology Station in Eustis. Some of the students who participated in this program were: Ralph Amadeo, Trang Vu, Robin Swords, Lon Warrick, and Eddie Skehan. Even though the freshman year was a hectic one, many advanced students took challenging courses and did well in them.

Advanced freshmen understood the value of a good education and therefore went beyond the limit of the average student. This paid off for the ones who realized the benefits of a little more work early in their high school academic career.

Freshmen Athletes

Freshmen had a lot of energy, and found several ways to be active as an outlet for their energy. Such sports were cheerleading, football, swimming, basketball, baseball, and tennis. Many freshmen participated in these various activities. Some of these people who went all out were Steve Madden, who excelled in football and baseball, and Doug Moffett also went all out in swimming and tennis. Some of the J.V. Cheerleaders included freshman Kathleen Young and Heather Clements. These and many other freshmen athletes participated in the various sports at Leesburg High School.

Freshman Get Involved

The freshman class got involved in many ways. One way in which they were involved was in the pep rallies. The freshman yelled and screamed with all the enthusiasm of loyal and dedicated Jacket fans.

The second way of getting involved for the freshmen was through Student Council meetings. Representatives for the Class of '87 could be found voicing their opinions and supporting the student government.

These ways, along with many others, were indicative of the school spirit contained within the freshman class. These students proved themselves to be trustworthy and dependable as the future leaders of Leesburg High!

Definition of a Freshman

According to the dictionary, by definition a "freshman" is a novice or newcomer. By definition "pride" is the quality or state of being proud. To have self esteem and a reasonable and justifiable self-respect. The freshmen of Leesburg High possessed this quality and were the people which were the future leaders of LHS.

DISCOVER JACKET

The 1983-1984 school year had many exciting and impressive experiences for students as well as teachers. To begin with, both the students and teachers had had to cope with many new graduation requirements. Because of these new policies students had to strive to maintain harder class loads while teachers had to teach more classes. The task of keeping up with the educational policies was especially hard for the new teachers on campus. Students were required to take more classes as well as the teachers were making harder assignments upon the students. Thus, 1983-1984 was a year of experiences for the students as well as the teachers.

... FACULTY

Administrators . . .

As our school principal, Mr. Wiley has done his share of helping students. He did his best to explain and enforce the new policies of the 1983-1984 school year and did a good job. He has shown school spirit by attending football games and keeping the rowdy students in line. Mr. Wiley has successfully done his job and deserves our praise.

Mrs. Hand has discovered that being an administrator isn't all it's cracked up to be. All the paper work can be a pain in the neck. Attending all of the faculty meetings isn't much fun either, but then there comes the reward of working with all the delightful students of LHS which makes being an administrator a pleasure.

This year the guidance counselors have again helped the students get on the right track towards success. If it were not for counselors like Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Wilson, and Mrs. Caudill the year would have been total confusion. They advised seniors on what colleges to attend and what courses they would have to take to complete their high school years. Mrs. Eason also advised students on what careers were suitable for them. The counselors listened to any problems the students had which makes them a necessary asset to the school.

The secretaries of Leesburg High School did an excellent job this year. Students can not realize what it would be like without our secretaries

This school would be total confusion without the organization of our secretaries. They handled the disoriented students, stacks of paperwork, and welcomed visitors to our school while advising them on whom to see or where to go

Without the dedication of these secretaries, Leesburg High would have been total chaos. They did a terrific job and made 1983-1984 a great year

These teachers received no monetary reward, but the gratitude from the entire student body was reward enough.

... ACTIVITIES

Summer Activities

Many Leesburg High School students had an exciting summer. The girls' cheerleaders attended camp where they learned about their careers. Kathryn Miller attended the Davids in July. Experience Kim Clements and Keith Berger were in camp at summer camps in North Carolina. Laura Wilson attended a program at the Air Force Academy in Colorado. Luke Martin, John Vaern, and Jeff Valente summered at home. Finally, Leesburg's own yearbook staff, headed by Ruth Lickert, attended a yearbook workshop at the home of the mighty Fighting Gators. These are a few examples of the many activities that people enjoyed during the summer of '83.

1983-84 Elections

The 1980-81 school year started off with much enthusiasm. The candidates were very busy the previous week putting up posters and sticking stickers in many places they could find. After the election night results were announced, the most posters were found in the most serious approach to the election.

After the election, the second meeting was held in the auditorium. The students were trying to decide whom they wanted to elect. The voting was done in a secret ballot.

Following the election, the results of the election were announced. Senior class officers for 1980-81 were: Kurt Ryan—president, Donna Martin—vice president, Sandy Wright—secretary, Annette Shook—treasurer. The junior class officers were: Tonva Meeks—president, Linda Jensen—vice president, Laura Bryant—secretary, and Dennis Crompton—treasurer. For the sophomore class: Tandi Edwards—president, Barbara Loney—vice president, Sandy Van Fleet—secretary, and Tim Beatty—treasurer. For the freshman class was: Tony Moffett—president, Kathleen Young—vice president, Christy Nicholas—secretary, and Pam Godfrey—treasurer.

The one-class approach was presented to the teachers and Hammerstein's musical "Fiddler on the Roof" was presented to the students through a song sheet and the students' knowledge of the musical and its story was solicited. The teacher was also solicited for the topic.

The story takes place in a small town in the South Pacific during World War II. It involves around the love between Ensign Nelle Forbush (Janna Adams) and a Frenchman Emile de Becque (Eddie Carter). Their love is complicated by prejudice and so is the love shared by Lt. Joseph Cable USMC (Joe Warner) and an island girl, Liat (Kathleen Hysong). Liat and Lt. Cable are brought together by Liat's mother, Bloody Mary (Vanessa Fuller). Other major characters in Starting the week off on a good note, Monday was a pupil holiday. Student Council sponsored a continental breakfast for the faculty. Tuesday was teacher mock day. Many personalized versions of Mrs. Hand, Mr. Bush, and many others could be seen wandering the halls of Leesburg High. That evening a rehearsal was held for the homecoming court and the band. Wednesday was nerd day, when high-waters and button-downs buttoned-up were in style! Each class built a people pyramid during their lunch, with the seniors coming out on top.

Thursday was Hawaiian/surf/tourist day. That afternoon was the parade down Main Street. Despite the rain, it was fun for everyone. The floats were judged and first place went to the band, second place to Triad, and third to D.C.T. The skits were held that evening on the football field. The results were as follows: for the classes, first, second, and third places went to the seniors, the sophomores, and the freshmen, respectively; for the clubs, N.H.S., Triad, and Chorus were the victors in that order. In the area of plots, the sophomores took first, the seniors took second, and the freshmen came in third.

Finally, Friday arrived. Triad held their annual O.J. rally at 7 a.m. Free orange juice was given out. The spirit-filled Jacket fans were decked out in orange and black. The regular pep rally was held on the football field that afternoon, with a full period to get the Jackets "psyched-up". The cheerleaders made a dramatic entrance to the sound of the Beach Boys, and two parachuters dropped in with the game ball. The winner of the "pie-in-the-face contest" was Mr. "Ready Freddy" Mularsky.

Speaking of contests, the Jackets wiped out the Hurricanes with a final score of 17-13. The tension mounted during halftime as the king and queen candidates lined up for the crowning (and the sceptering?!). The recipients were Scott Engle and Tia Paquette. The other candidates were Bert Boliek, Kathleen Hysong, Trini Thomas and Mary Margaret Grizzard. The junior attendants were Shannon Mack and Sam Hewitt. Scott Parrish and Durenda Looney represented the sophomore class. The freshmen elected Tom Kent and Kathleen Young as their attendants.

Following the game was the homecoming dance. The couples danced on until 1 a.m. to the sounds of Zero Factor and D.J.'s Bert Boliek and Ricky Rojas, alias Ultra-Sound. All in all, homecoming week 1983 was one of the best ever at Leesburg High School!

Scott Engle, Tia Paquette, and Tom Kent take their place on the podium in the crowning ceremony.

First place goes to the sophomore plot.

Boys' and Girls' State

Boys' and Girls' state both represent an unforgettable week of intense patriotic and political growth. As a result of being selected by the American Legion Post in Leesburg George Savage and Paul Koss represented the Leesburg post at Boys' State. Likewise, Bill Miner represented the Fruitland Park American Legion. Similarly, Lyria Wilson, representing the Leesburg post, attended Girls' State. During one week the "Staters" learn more about government than most people learn in a lifetime. "Staters" run for offices ranging from the city government to the state government. Furthermore, those in the state government actually run Florida's State Government through the Senate and House of Representatives for almost three days. All "Staters" are referred to as citizens. The citizens populate the imaginary state. Likewise, the citizens run for offices in the government at any of the three levels: city, county, or state. Because each citizen starts at the same level, all elections won, represent the result of each candidate's own efforts and obvious merit. This exciting week takes place during the summer between the junior and senior years. Both Boys' and Girls' State take place on Florida State University's campus. "Staters" are housed in dormitories where they live in "cities" consisting of themselves and 29 other people they have never met. Because of the unfamiliarity of the citizens, each person feels the same as everyone else. Despite the fact that State represents a week of intense learning it is also very enlightening and is frequently referred to as the beginning of a lifetime."

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Ms. Cantwell was responsible for the Leesburg High School students being able to participate in Special Olympics. She always encouraged them and supported the team. Our team consisted of Bobbie Sue Hanna, Jennifer Hunt, Angela Bowden, Mary Alice Terry, Jennifer Robinson, Gwen Bell, Betty Conyers, and Judy Howard. The Special Olympics were held March 3rd and was an event that lasted all day. This activity stressed many different sports such as relays, the long jump, and track and field events. The age of participants ranged from a six year old at an elementary school level to a fifty-eight year old from the Sun-Rise Work Shop. Whether it be listening, thinking, reading, writing, spelling or arithmetic, the students were handicapped in some way, but they always strove to improve.

We're just taking a little time off!

The 1983 Junior-Senior Powderpuff game was exciting for the Seniors, but disappointing for the Juniors. By the end of the game the Seniors had relentlessly pounded the Juniors in a 50-0 defeat. The game was just as controversial as the two weeks before it. With some very strict officiating, three Junior coaches and one player from each team were ejected in the second half. As for the action on the field, it was some of the best ever.

After holding the Juniors on their first possession, the Seniors marched the ball down field, capping it off with a touchdown run around right end by Kerri Ryan. The rest of the first half followed pretty much the same. By halftime the class of 1984 held a 20-0 lead, but they were not about to let up. The second half went just like the first. Despite using many substitutes in the offensive line, the Seniors racked up thirty more points.

The Senior scoring barrage was led by Kerri Ryan, who had four touchdowns. Shannon McLin, Kathleen Hysong, and Jennifer Robinson all had one touchdown apiece. Kersten Anderson, Kathryn Moffett, and Wendi Hammond also stood out on both of fense and defense. For the Juniors, Sherry Gronlund, Tonda Morrison, and Cheri Harper did exceptional jobs both ways throughout the game.

Afterwards, Joe Viola, one of the Senior coaches, was pleasantly pleased with the one-sided score. "I didn't think we'd win by that much," he said with a sly grin. During the two weeks prior to the game, the Senior coaches were a bit worried about their team's attitude. Viola put it best after the game as he said, "We pulled together, we played as a team, and we won as a team."

DISCOVER JACKET...

Throughout the year, many LHS Jackets and fans were able to discover athletics. Whether it be through participation or spectatorship, Jackets were found at every kind of athletic activity from football to swimming to baseball to softball and every other sport in between. Many Jackets spent their first semester Friday nights at the football games. Later in the year there were swim meets, basketball games, golf matches, tennis matches, weightlifting and wrestling meets. It was through these athletic events that Jacket players gain valuable friendships and team cooperation experience, while the fans gained a sense of school spirit and companionship with friends, thus making athletics an important part of the 1983-1984 school year.

Unknown to most people, the group of students producing the La Torre, the Leesburg High School yearbook, had a big job

"Deadline", a dreaded word to a La Torre staffer, dictated how much each member was required to do

The staff was split up to cover six different sections. Each section had an editor and three or four staff members

The entire book was carefully watched by the two editors, Brian Geiger and Olympia Gonatos, and was monitored by the advisor Mrs. Ruth Lockett

The section editors included: Seniors—Shannon McLin, Juniors—Mary Faber

Sophomores—Marilyn Troup, Freshmen—Kathryn Moffett, Faculty—Randy Bitter, Sports—Steve Bowman, and Advertising—Eric Hipp. The business manager was Donita Martin. She was aided by Amy Jasmanki

The success of the yearbook was due greatly to the exceptional pictures taken by Photography Editor—Keith Berger. He was aided by staff members Tim Griner and Marilyn Troup as well as faculty members Marc Micham, Pete Bush, and Ruth Lockett

Because of the dedication and hard work of the editors and many staff members, Leesburg High School had a yearbook of which it could be proud

This year the newspaper staff has worked together to form Leesburg High's excellent newspaper, The Stinger. They provided the entire student body with a paper once every two weeks. The staff covered all of the events very well, but that is not all they did. They wrote the copy and set up the final layouts. Ed Carter was the editor-in-chief. Although having to work with seven girls could prove to be hectic, they were organized and managed to produce a superior paper. The staff wanted to give special thanks to Julius Cates and the Eustis Lake News for their help in producing The Stinger.

Special thanks should also be given to Mrs. Aurelia Ogles for all her time and effort.

The purpose of French club was to have a club in which people could meet and participate in French orientated projects and activities. Some of the projects were writing to pen pals and making French foods. The activities included a trip to Orlando to attend French Congress, a Christmas party, and a trip to EPCOT.

Many fundraisers were undertaken in order to support all these events. Bake sales were held and Christmas paper was sold. There was also a car wash.

Although French club was new to L.H.S. there were quite a few active members who attended the meetings, which were held every Monday. The real gem of the club was the sponsor, Jacqueline Tidwell, who dedicated many hours of her time helping the club.

What a busy year it was for the Latin Club! The 1983-1984 year held many, many activities sponsored by the ever-growing LHS Latin Club. Among the many events that members experienced and enjoyed were: a trip to Busch Gardens, toga day, the annual banquet including slave auction, district contests, state competition, a car wash, and the year end parents' banquet. During the first semester banquet which only students may attend the traditional slave auction was held. It was here that first year Latin students were able to make friends with upperclass members as the older members "purchased" the underclassman as slaves for a two-hour period. Also included in the activities were the district and state competitions, in which Leesburg attained many awards as well as hosting the state convention in April. All in all this year proved to be the best yet for the LHS Latin Club.

Spanish Club On the Move

This year the Spanish Club was a very active group. With Mrs. Betty Berry as an inspiring leader, this group took many exciting field trips. The DeLand Museum was the first stop which featured The Ages of Mexico and Pre and Post Columbian Treasures. The second stop was the Daytona Beach Museum of Arts and Sciences which featured Pre-Incan and Pre Columbian Art in Panama and the permanent exhibit of South America. The Spanish Club also visited Casa Gallardo Mexican Restaurant and enjoyed typical Mexican food. Some dishes were Chimichanga, empanadas, flautas, Mexican fried ice cream, and much much more.

This group also went to a play that was entitled Mexico-Espana-Ole! This play was put on by the Boston Flamenco Ballet Company at the Edyth Bush theatre.

Claudine Whitton was president of this club, and with the help of the other officers she arranged many fund raisers. The fund raisers were orange and black spirit shakers, stuffed animals, stationery and suncatchers.

All in all, LHS was very proud to have such an exciting club on campus.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society started the year off with 25 members. Eleven juniors were tapped in November. All were selected on the four basic criteria which are character, scholarship, leadership and service. Members had to keep their grades up and accumulate a minimum of service points every nine weeks in order to maintain their eligibility.

N.H.S. worked on many projects, both service and fund-raising, throughout the year. The service projects included a teachers' breakfast, an honor roll party, and a tutoring service after school. In the area of fund-raisers, the concession stand was open after school everyday, and bake sales were held periodically.

The 1983-84 school year was certainly a successful one for the National Honor Society. As each member looks back upon it, he is filled with a sense of satisfaction.

The Air Force Junior Reserved Officers Training Corp of Leesburg High, under the leadership of teachers and students, experienced an active year. The AFJ ROTC supervised by Sergeant Futch and Major Hamilton, exhibited the qualifying training instilled in them by these fine men. Despite this fact ROTC was commanded by ROTC officers. These officers lead the squadron in formations and parades. Two such leaders C/Ma Clark Everetts, Squadron Commander and C/Cap India Page, Deputy Squadron Commander, represented the leadership becoming of a young officer and lead their squadron through another successful year. Among the many events ROTC participated in, the raising of the new flag in honor of those service men killed in the Middle East stands out with pride. The new and bigger stars and stripes was appropriately raised during the flag burning ceremony which took place during the memorial service. Other more traditional events such as the raising and lowering of the school flag each day were also accomplished. Although ROTC was an academic course, the cadets exhibited the role of a service club through their military activities.

THE BEAT GOES ON . . .

1983-84 was definitely up-beat for the Jacket fans, for those who attended the foot ball games, and heard the LHS band perform.

The improvement of the band has furthered greatly under the direction of Mr. Jack Hart. The band attended District Competition and received straight superiors, and at Vero Beach received an excellent rating.

Much effort and enthusiasm was put forth from every member of the band to perform to their utmost, when in the public eye. Every one who attended the band's performances were enthusiastic in every way. The latest music could always be heard, such as Michael Jackson's hits "Beat It" and "Wanna Be Startin' Something".

Drum majors Randi Swill and Scherman Parker led the band to a crowd cheering performance every Friday night at halftime. Other leaders of the band included Leslie Jones—secretary, and Denise Phillips—colonel.

New ideas were always being developed, and the performances for the year '84-'85 are sure to be as successful as the ones in '83-'84.

Chorus: Discovered Through . . .

Chorus was one of the busiest organizations on campus. With all its performances, there had to be many practices to be sure the chorus would do its very best. Under the superior direction of Ms. Karyl Logan talented students were given opportunities to show and express their musical abilities.

Under the category of chorus are several groups: Madrigals, Concert Chorus, Advanced Girls, Chorales, and Mediators (beginning chorus). These groups worked very hard in order to perform at many concerts including a fall, Christmas, and spring concert.

At Christmas time chorus was very busy spreading Christmas cheer throughout the community. Advanced Girls performed at Lake Square Mall. Madrigals performed for many organizations throughout the community including Kiwanis Club and Triangle Club. They also sang at the faculty breakfast on a student holiday. Madrigals also joined concert chorus in singing for Hawthorne and Oak Park Elementary School.

There were two performances that really highlighted the Christmas season. The first was a Sun Bank. The Christmas story was presented through song and narration by Mr. Joe Holmes. The second was at Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom. Chorus members from many other schools participated in this candlelight ceremony. The guest narrator for this performance was the well-known Joseph Campanella.

Chorus also worked very hard selling apples and ads for the South Pacific musical. The money raised was used for a tour of Florida that the Chorus took in late January.

Thanks to the hard work and dedication of Ms. Logan, the accompanists, and each and every Chorus member, this has again been another successful year for chorus.

TRI-M — MODERN MUSIC MASTERS

Tri-M, under the sponsorship of Ms. Logan, consisted of band and chorus members who received a superior or an excellent rating at the District Solo and Ensemble Contest.

Earlier in the year, a new member banquet was held for the students who met the requirements. During the banquet, the new members had to perform the talent that had received a superior or excellent rating. Tri-M inducts only Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors.

The offices for Tri-M were held by Dana Birdsall, president; John Warner, vice president; Kathleen Hysong, secretary; Karen Rockwood, treasurer; Douglas Major, parliamentarian; and Jenniter Pearce, historian.

Student Council

The Student Council raised much money for funds this year. For example, the Student Council sold candy canes for your sweet heart, friend, or someone special, which was a great hit among the students, and a big money-maker. Student Council also arranged the selling of Senior T-shirts to the members of the graduating Senior class. Those and many other ideas used all raised money for the Student Council.

Student Council also made the plans concerning all the Homecoming activities. These activities included a skydiver, the Homecoming parade, the halftime show, and the Homecoming dance. All of these were a smash, even the rained-on parade became fun in the mud. Everything built up to the exciting crowning of the Homecoming King and Queen. All in all, Student Council again succeeded in producing another enjoyable Homecoming.

INTERCLUB

Today, those desiring to change the world generally arise as LEADERS. This is also true of the LEADERSHIP, here at LHS. Leesburg High School has many outstanding youth who work hard their school as well as their community. This year a tremendous amount of change has taken place around campus. These changes, initiated by various club and organization leaders, brought a new image to Leesburg High. This improvement may be credited to the members of Interclub.

Interclub consists of club, class, and organization presidents. The vice-president of Student Council, Janna Adams was the president of Interclub. Janna energetically led Interclub in a new, exciting way. The size of this club tripled as did the amount of work Interclub did around campus. The members put their heads together and found when working together they could do much more for LHS.

Along with a new attitude came a new sponsor. Mr. Mularsky, a former Student Council president, found himself a very busy man as he doubled as Student Council and Interclub sponsor. Being sponsor proved to be fun, exhilarating, exciting, and a lot of hard work. But Mr. Mularsky survived the year with his keen sense of humor and his lovable personality. As for the members of Interclub they survived the year by learning that life was much easier when tackled TOGETHER! Togetherness indeed proved to be the key to Interclub's success this year. Finding this key was the first step, but putting it in the right key hole arose as being the toughest step. Major service clubs around campus suffered severe set backs and disappointments. But strong individuals took on extra work and put the key to success in the right lock, making Interclub's turning the key the easiest step. By working together, Interclub opened the door of opportunity for everyone at LHS. Making 1983-1984 one FANTASTIC YEAR!

High-Q

The High-Q team once again maintained their high level of knowledge in order to carry on the tradition of the club. The sponsor of the club, Mrs. Sastry, was extremely beneficial in encouraging the team on to victory.

The competitions consisted of two teams of four players each. During the two rounds which constituted the games, questions on subjects ranging from mathematics to mythology were asked. The players were given five seconds to answer the question correctly. Points were assigned to each question and the team scoring the highest number of points by the end of the game was declared the winner.

Lake County had eight teams. The team competed with these various schools in the county, and made a good showing.

The captain of the High-Q team was Claudia Faunt. Marc Matthews acted as the co-captain.

The team was especially grateful to their new sponsor Mrs. Sastry for volunteering to take over this club. Without her help, the club would have been unable to remain active.

The Art Club was very active on campus and in Lake County. They made the football hoop for the players to jump through for each home game. They also made many signs for the new stadium. During the Christmas season they made favors to take to the rest homes in Leesburg.

In March for their money-raising project they held an art show. Each person wishing to participate in the show had to pay an entry fee.

The club itself also participated in many shows around the county such as the Fun and Arts Festival, the Lake County Fair, and the Fruitland Park Armed Forces Day program.

In March the club also participated in the Spring Fine Arts Festival that was held at the school.

The club has done many things throughout the year to help various clubs and organizations on campus. If you need some things done, ask the Art Club. The club was ably led by Mr. Frantz, who has been sponsoring the club for many years.

Future Homemakers of America has always had a contributing influence on students at Leesburg High. The club did not contribute to society as a whole, students in this organization developed skills in areas beneficial to homemaking.

The officers that helped organize and develop the club are as follows: Robin Phillips, Michele Smith, Patty Warren, and Missy Savage.

FUTURE SCIENTISTS

This year's Science Club was a success. The club was led by Jeff Tabor—president, Susan Fetter—vice-president, Martin Norman—treasurer, and Michelle Lindsey as secretary. Although the officers helped and led the club in many activities, they could not have done it without the help of Dr. Branham, the club's sponsor.

Membership is open to anyone who is interested in promoting a better understanding of science and the world around them. They must also meet the state grade requirements.

Many of the year's activities included the trip to Crystal River to swim with the manatees, a visit to the junior science and engineering symposium at the University of Florida, sailing lessons, sky parties, and looking through telescopes at moons and planets. Another highlight of the club was Dr. Branham's trip to the Red Sea. When he returned, slides of his trip were shown.

The Chess Club was a new club on campus in 1983-1984. The club was the offspring of Mr. Soto, who also acted as the team sponsor. Claudia Faunt was the president and also the only senior member.

The members played games against one another and they hoped to set up an intramural schedule for next year.

DECA is a nationwide organization that stands for Distributive Education Clubs of America. This club was sponsored by William Pfeifer, who did an excellent job organizing fundraising activities.

DECA ran the school store located in the annex section and also sponsored a car wash-a-thon. The club used the money to go to contests at the local, state, and national levels. The students competed against other high schools for knowledge about sales, advertising, display, product knowledge, finance and management. These experiences helped prepare the DECA members for their future in business.

CECF, which stands for Cooperative Education Clubs of Florida, used to be known as the Florida Federation of DCT Clubs and has been in existence since the late 1930's. With the formulation of other cooperative vocational education programs, the name was changed for the purpose of covering any cooperative vocational educational program without referring to any one specific program.

The sponsor of CECF was Delores Gray. This club was involved in various activities such as Homecoming and fund-raising projects.

The members of both of these clubs were permitted to leave campus early and work at a job which allowed them also to earn a school credit. The difference between the clubs was that CECF made the product and DECA sold or advertised the product. This was affected in the type of job the students held.

Triad, a girls' service club, had an outstanding year. The girls all joined together as one to better serve both the school and community. Many activities, including fund-raisers, service projects, and just plain get-togethers, were planned and successfully completed.

The fund-raisers included a Christmas semi-formal dance and a rummage sale. As a service project, complete Thanksgiving dinners were given to needy families. An O J rally was held during homecoming week. This took place before school, and fresh orange juice was given to the students.

Two Triad traditions were carried on. The first was to sponsor Road Heaver, a boys' ranch. The second was taking care of the upkeep of a squirrel monkey at the Central Florida Zoo. During Triad's spirit week, the girls' Jacket Pride was evident in many ways. One way was the support shown to the football team. Each girl was assigned a player. Throughout the week, each player was lavished with gifts and goodies, which helped to encourage the Jackets on to victory!

The officers for 1983-84 were as follows: President—Denise Phillips, vice-president—Kathleen Hysong, recording secretary—Olympia Gonatos, corresponding secretary—Marilyn Troup, treasurer—Melissa Throckmorton, and parliamentarian—Donita Martin. Mrs. Read was once again the sponsor, and proved to be an essential element in all areas of the club. She was deeply appreciated, and each girl benefited from her dedication. Mrs. Norman was also involved in Triad as the Triangle representative. Through the care and concern of these two women, Triad was made even better than it was before.

Triad members established a close friendship, almost a sisterhood, with one another. Hayrides, dances, and the feeling which comes through helping others all contributed to that closeness.

Big Changes in Interact

There were several changes that took place in Interact this year, but the most obvious one was the fact that the club became co-ed. Interact was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Leesburg. The national Rotary organization decided that its high school clubs could accept female members. This new club was sponsored by Mr. Don Dolce.

The purpose of the club was to provide needed services for the school and community. The club planned several service activities for the school and planned to work with several of the area nursing homes in the community.

The club has fifteen energetic new members and with such an enthusiastic group they will surely continue to take an active part in serving both the school and community.

As of January 1, 1984, the Key Club started a new beginning. The club was reorganized under the leadership of Kenny Williams—president and Mr. Mularsky—sponsor, helped a great deal in re-establishing Key Club's reputation as an outstanding club. A way in which they changed it was by going co-educational.

Key Club held many fundraising activities throughout the year. They sponsored a Key Club vs. The Faculty basketball game and also presented "flicks" of various movies such as The Little Rascals and The Three Stooges, during the second part of lunch. The money raised was used towards attending a convention in Plant City for four days. Key Club was also the originator of the Teacher of the Month award. The teachers who received the honor were very proud and were also treated to dinner for two.

The Junior-Ettes did a lot of interesting projects this year. They read stories to help the Lake County Reading Council and also painted windows during Homecoming. The Jr. Ettes also kept the teachers' lounge supplied with cake.

In their annual initiation, those inducted included: Becky Kirkland, Deniece Green, Debbie Uridel, Marcia Findlay, Gloria Lewis, and Becky Burckard. The initiation consisted of initiates wearing a variety of different costumes. The new members learned a few songs and performed for the entire lunch room.

The beau for this organization was Dean Harper, who was chosen because of his pleasant personality. The Jr-Ettes was a very active club with Mrs. Dishon as the school sponsor and the Junior Womans' Club as the community sponsor.

Pamoja scheduled a Walk-A-Thon, but it was rained out. They came back after that bad luck with many more successful fund raisers. They held a car wash, a bake sale and a candy sale. They also had a fashion show and a Black Achievement Day. Pamoja did much community service, such as visiting churches and giving out Christmas boxes, which were filled with canned foods for the needy.

Pamoja means "togetherness". And that there was. The members of Pamoja are proud of their club and the services it has done. They are proud of all they have achieved and the work they have done under the direction of Mr. Hart.

More and more people are beginning to join the growing club of FFA. All new members start by joining Jr. FFA then they become members of the Senior Chapter. FFA participates in many activities that the Sr FFA does. Activities include raising their own steers, then they sell their steers, in the Lake County Fair, to the one who has the highest bid. Averaged out, a steer can sometimes be sold for over a thousand dollars! But not all steers can be sold at that price. The price is determined by the weight of it. This year, more members are owning heifers instead of steers. Kevin Keen, Bill Marsh and Juanita Anderson are just a few who already own one. These and many others will be participating in the Heifer show in Lake and Sumter Counties. Any one who owns a steer definitely has a load to handle! Whether it is washing his steer, brushing it daily, cleaning its stall or just walking it. Working with a steer can sometimes become frustrating and hard work, but in the long run, owning a steer or a heifer, can be rewarding.

The convention lasted one week and was held in Kansas City, Missouri, where thousands of young students gathered to learn leadership qualities

The chapter's main project is raising steers for showing and selling at the Lake County Fair. Many members entered their steers into the fair and did quite well.

DISCOVER JACKET ...

On campus, during the 1983-1984 school year, there existed many organizations, ranging from service clubs such as N H S , Triad, and Key Club, to academic clubs like Latin Club, Computer Club, and Science Club, to fellowship groups such as FCA and Chess Club. Through these organizations many students were able to discover the "flip side" of student life. Organizations allowed students an outlet through which they could have tremendous fun, be with other students, and still have time to concentrate on their studies. In some organizations such as newspaper and yearbook, the evidence of discovery by work could be physically seen. In other organizations like ROTC, discovery was a personal experience.

After five long years of disappointment the 1983 Fighting Yellow Jackets made the Leesburg football program a winner again. With a 6-4 record, the Jackets brought home Leesburg's first winning season since 1977.

Coach Foster was blessed this season with a handful of backs who will be dominant in their next one or two years of high school football. These backs include: Andre Graham, Sammie Simmons, Erick Berry, John Cannon, Charles Casey, and quarterback Dwayne Corneilus.

The Jackets' offensive line in 1983 was one of the biggest in a couple of years. Led by center and team captain, Troy Mahan, the line was held down mainly by Dayne Williams and Sam Hewitt at guards, Dro Ormrod and Darrell Middleton at ends, and Clint Burgess at one of the tackle spots. Because of this line, the Jackets were able to run and pass over teams like Lake Weir, Bishop Moore, Oviedo, St. Cloud, Citrus, and Eustis. These were six victories which capped an unforgettable season.

Defensively, the Jackets were led by Vernon Allen and Darren Nusbaum at linebackers. Others who played on defense also made plenty of tackles to round out a well-balanced team.

The Varsity cheerleaders worked very hard to promote school spirit. At cheerleading camp they were voted most spirited of the whole camp. The cheerleaders were extremely proud of this accomplishment.

As the school year started out, the cheerleaders were behind the football team, backing them all the way. For the first pep rally they had a surprise for everyone at JHS. They strutted out in the middle of the gym with overcoats and sunglasses on and as the music began to play "Beat It" they took off their overcoats to show off their new uniforms and started a pom-pom routine. The theme for that week was Undercover and many people participated by wearing their coats to school.

The cheerleaders had many good ideas for pep rallies. The week when Leesburg played Ocala Forest, the theme was Burn Forest. The cheerleaders did a cute skit wearing fireman's coats, pants and hats and threw water substituted by paper, at Kim Crane, the mascot, who was dressed as the "burning Ocala Forest."

The cheerleaders did many activities to raise money for their uniforms. They washed cars, they sold ribbons for every home game and they also sponsored a dance.

The 1983-84 Junior Varsity Cheerleading Squad consisted of 11 girls determined to arouse the spirit of fellow classmates and to help cheer on the “Mighty Yellow Jackets.” Each had their own part in building pyramids, making up new cheers and pom-pom routines and devoting much time and effort. Keeping things in order and always being a friend was Tandy Lawrence, the captain. She was a main base, made up the pom-pom routines with Durenda Looney for camp, and organized all of the practices and fund raisers.

Traci Guthrie, Durenda, Stephanie Swisstock, and Tamara Whisenand were always the ones who climbed right to the top of the pyramids. Heather Clements and Christy Throckmorton were always there to ~~most~~ things up, when others just didn’t seem to be tall enough. Janna Adams was always the pep and pride. She let everyone know that they were “The J.V. Cheerleaders,” and they share that love and pride with all they meet.

The Sting

The Leesburg High School swimming team, otherwise known as The Sting, had another winning season. Behind the coaching of Don Dolce, the girls had an undefeated season while the boys only lost to Ocala Forest. The captains were: Claudia Faunt and Kathryn Moffett for the girls' team. The Sting swam in a new district which included the Cocoa Beach teams and many year around swimmers. This district was much harder and the competition was fierce. Both the girls and boys won their conference again and placed high at districts. From districts the girls' and boys' medley relays qualified to state. Individual qualifications included: George Savage in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle, Kathryn Moffett in the 50 freestyle, Jim Knight in the 100-yard backstroke, and Billy Wells in the 500-free and 100-fly. Consequently the Leesburg High swim team once again had an extremely successful year.

JACKETS THROUGH THE HOOP!

The 1983-84 Yellow Jackets basketball team had a somewhat different, yet worthwhile season. Coach Nicholson started the season with a relatively young, but promising team. The year seemed to be going well at the start, but toward the end of the first semester three key players were lost due to grades. The loss of the three players definitely hurt the team. The remaining eight players, however, never gave up. Another incident which marked the off-beat season was at Bishop Moore High School where the dampness from a rainstorm that day caused the court to be dangerously slick. Thus the game had to be rescheduled for a later date.

Despite these and other problems, the Jackets had some definite bright points on the team. One of the brightest was Andre Graham. The junior postman was consistently leading the team in scoring and rebounds. Another was sophomore center John Cannon. He was always there to grab a rebound or follow-up a shot when needed. Sim Honer was yet another player who still has more time ahead of him on varsity. As a point guard, Sim could beat almost any full-court press around.

Though this year could be considered as a disappointment by some, it could be looked at as a step in the right direction with a lot of experience returning next year.

The outstanding efforts of the Lady Jacks Varsity basketball team is what made the team such a success. They started training back in September, running two miles a day as well as lifting weights. Then in October they started practicing in the gym everyday. They were very dedicated and acted as a family unit. The three team captains were Juanita Foster, Carol Evans, and Margie Meredith. Another outstanding player was Keturah Roberts. The team received honorable mention in the newspaper ranking of all the triple "A" schools in Florida. This was because they averaged 62 points a game. Players such as Keturah Roberts led the team to a victorious season. The players themselves also received many honors. The team deserved every victory and honor they received.

The Junior Varsity basketball team had a very good season in 1984. They worked hard to perfect their skills on the court, having practices on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

The team played Tavares, Vanguard, St. Cloud, Mt. Dora, and Orlando Jones at home. They traveled to Lake Brantley, Clermont, Bishop Moore, Oviedo and Osceola.

The team worked hard both offensively and defensively, and under the guidance of Coach Dillinger they had a successful year.

The Volleyball team only had three returning players. As a result of that, this year was spent as a learning experience; the majority of the players, however, will be returning next season. Since the team was in the process of rebuilding, they should have a good team next year.

The seniors, Freda Coleman and India Page led the team. April Perrigo, Bobbie Sue Hanna, and Tonda Morrison were junior players. The sophomores included Stacy Hall and Adria Snyder. The one freshman was Renee Lolley.

Freda Coleman, the captain of the team, was listed on the Lake Sentinel All-County volleyball team, along with Adria Snyder.

This year's Varsity baseball team at LHS was typified as being a team of balance. Without any one real "superstar" the Jack ets worked together toward victory. Players such as Dayne Williams, Chris Vinson, Dro Ormrod, and Scott Mullis supplied power to hit the long ball. Others including Joe Viola and Jeff Valentine were constantly getting on base to score the runs. Their balance at the plate proved to bring in plenty of runs.

On defense, Williams' experience at catcher prevented many opponents from stealing bases. Sam Hewitt and Steve Madden proved to be valuable also in the infield.

Overall, the Jackets were a strong team in every aspect of the game. This strength made the Jackets' baseball team winners.

The 1983-1984 Junior Varsity baseball season had an energetic beginning. The players and batgirls sold Jacket visors and baseball hats to raise money for new uniforms. This enthusiasm carried on throughout the difficult season. The team faced tough opponents such as Ocala Vanguard, Oviedo, and Eustis, but under the encouragement and coaching of Wade Welsh, the team came together and defeated various opponents. Coach Welsh returned as J.V. coach this year, making it his second year coaching the Junior Varsity team; however, Coach Welsh is surely no stranger to the Leesburg baseball program. During his high school career, he played Varsity ball for Coach "Buddy" Lowe.

This year the J.V. Jackets practiced and fought hard while striving for victory. The team had several members who will be strong Varsity players in upcoming years. One such player, Kerry Cole, played center field this year. Kerry served as an outstanding athlete

Other dependable batters were Robbie Mercer who played defensive on third base and starting catcher Todd Bolling. In addition to these players were starting pitchers Hooty, Lawrence, Billy Abel, and Slade McSheehy. These pitchers led the team and were very instrumental in the victories obtained this year. These players plus the remainder of the squad, Coach Welsh, and the manager, worked hard this season and represented LHS well.

The girls take a break

This year the girls' softball team had a good start as the defending conference champions. The returning seniors were Kerri Ryan, Margie Meredith, Kiersten Anderson, and Kim Van Waes. The hard hitter of the team was Keturah Roberts, while on the defense there were the plays of Margie Meredith and the pitching of Sherry Gronlund. The other players were Cheree Dixon, Erin Wicks, Tonda Morrison, Tina Beatty, Adria Snyder, Tonya Dixon, and Sandy Viola. Their sponsor and coach was Mrs. Georgette Eason.

This year the team travelled to Osceola, St. Cloud, Oviedo, Bishop Moore, Tavares, Clermont, and Eustis. The district tournament was held April 25th, 26th, and 27th.

The girls had a very good year and did well under the guidance of their coach. They did well with lots of dedication and practice, but most of all it took teamwork.

The 1983-1984 boys' tennis team was led by Coach Dan Cassidy. Coach Cassidy is no stranger to the tough job of being a tennis coach. Last year he was a tremendous inspiration and a fantastic leader for both boys' and girls tennis teams alike. This year the team benefitted from Mr. Cassidy's experience, especially since the only returning players were Randy Alvut and Rodney Padgett. On the other hand, promising athletes such as Doug Moffett and Bobby Baxley will be strong competitors to represent Leesburg in the future. With the combination of these boys hard work and Coach Cassidy's encouragement, this young team was able to represent LHS with PRIDE.

In the Swing of Things

The LHS girls' tennis team was in full swing by the opening of the season in February. The team consisted of eight girls: Fabiana Schwan, Laura Brown, Kathryn Moffett, Sydney Johnson, Betsy Voss, Missy Cameron, and Kelly Leydig. The top three spots were held by Fabiana, Sydney, and Kathryn. The girls worked hard, practicing everyday, to build a promising team. Mrs. Sue Mullen, the coach of the girls' team, promoted an idea of positive thinking and self confidence which led the girls to victory throughout the season. The determination of every member of the team was a success and the girls were anxious for another winning year.

The Coach of the golf team was Mike Semanchich. Knowing that all the members did their best, everyone can be proud of this year's team.

Third row: Darrell Coleman, Andre Graham, Charles Alexander, Eddie Carter, John Warner, Darren Nusbaum, Fred Coleman, Vernon Allen, and Tim Allen.

This year's track team was instilled with pride and determination. These qualities enabled the members to resist the temptation of not working out in order to prepare for their upcoming meets. These meets were between Leesburg's boys' and girls' teams and various other area track teams. The boys were coached by Marc Micham while Joann Dean was coach of the girls' team. Both teams represented LHS well and must be commended for the victories they obtained during this difficult season.

Although it was a relatively short season, and all the meets were scheduled to be held at other schools, the Jackets prevailed as being enthusiastic and concerned about one another. Experienced runners such as Darrell Coleman, Freda Coleman, Paul Henderson, and Andre Graham returned to the team this year and served as inspirations to both the boys' and girls' teams alike. The male and female runners encouraged one another and under the leadership of Coach Micham and Coach Dean were able to finish the season knowing they had represented LHS to the best of their abilities.

THE LIFTING OF WEIGHTS

The weightlifting team has finished the season with a grand total of three meets losing two and winning one. The evident lack of competition was the result of the lack of communication among the schools. Although weightlifting is considered an individual sport, each lifter contributes points toward the team's total. This combined effort pushes each member to earn points for the team.

After the regular season, lifters who attained a state qualifying total participated in the state meet. Lifters who went to state this year were Bill Miner in the 148 pound class and Vernon Allen in the 198 pound class. State was the final meet during which lifters competed for state ranking.

In closing Bill Miner and Paul Koss, co-captains of the team, would like to express their appreciation to Coach Sherrod. Coach Sherrod may not be compensated, but the team feels that his efforts deserved more than just compensation. This attitude of brotherhood was what made weightlifting a team sport!

Wrestling With Victory

Wayne Prevatt displays a Senior Paper Roll at Conference

This year's wrestling team experienced a successful season despite the tough schedule. Although the team was not always victorious, the individual wrestlers were winners. Several wrestlers proved they were top quality by qualifying for the Regional Wrestling Tournament in Sebring. Among these wrestlers are Leon Wellmaker—soph—136 lb. class, and Wayne Prevatt—soph—170 lb. class, who Coach Micham felt were his most promising wrestlers. Others going to Regionals were Vernon Allen—188 lb. class—holding the best record for wins and pins; Jay Morrell—223 lb. class, and Robert Roundtree—Unlimited class—deemed most improved wrestler on the team. Even though the team is losing Senior wrestlers, Coach Micham foresees a promising season next year.

Many events took place in the world during the 1983-1984 school year. News of successes and failures, both at home and abroad, unfolded on the pages of print we held before us. We watched America enter into the role of peace-keeper in the Middle East. We read of the account of the downing of a Korean airliner. All these stories and more affected our lives and were reported to us faithfully by the news services.

VOLUME 109 NUMBER 118 LEESBURG FLORIDA

TUESDAY MAY 15, 1984/TWO SECTIONS 20 PAGES DAILY 10 CENTS

The terrorist massacre of peace-keeping U.S. Marines in Lebanon was the top story of 1983 by vote of Associated Press newspaper and broadcast member editors.

The top 10 stories of the year had a heavy foreign flavor, reflecting U.S. concerns and actions overseas. Number 2 in the poll was the downing of a South Korean airliner by Soviet jets. No. 3 was the U.S.-led invasion of Grenada as part of a tougher Reagan policy in Central America and the Caribbean.

The U.S. economy, which was the top story in the 1982 poll, ranked fourth in 1983 as inflation abated, unemployment dropped and deficits rose.

The list

1. Marines massacred in Beirut terror bombing.
2. Soviets down South Korean airliner.
3. U.S.-backed invasion of Grenada.
4. American economy: inflation down, unemployment drops, deficit rises.
5. Missiles deployed in Europe, Russians break off talks.
6. Antinuclear movement in Europe, nuclear freeze drive in the United States.
7. Lach Walesa wins the Nobel Peace prize.
8. Menachem Begin resigns in Israel.
9. Weather: Winter storms, spring flooding, drought and hurricane plague the nation.
10. James Watt resigns as secretary of the interior.

The runners-up included: The Day After and its impact, the split in the Palestine Liberation Organization; the march commemorating Martin Luther King, Jr.; the assassination of Philippine political leader Benigno Aquino; the disappearance from public view of Soviet President Yuri Andropov, and the Australian victory in the America's Cup.

Nineteen eighty three. The year nature finally caught up with us.

It seemed as though everywhere we turned this past year, specters from the land were rising up to haunt us. Temik, EDB. The Tower Chemical Co. Almost every week more people in Lake County were being warned not to drink their own well water.

Four of our lakes were named among the most polluted in the state. Controversy came to a head surrounding the Jupiter Creek dredging project and the Cross Florida Barge Canal. The call sounded for stricter mining laws in both Lake and Sumter counties.

Citrus growers' hopes for a good season were dashed some weeks ago when a sudden cold snap destroyed up to an estimated 28% of the state's orange crop, forcing them to scramble to salvage the fruit that survived.

Two Eustis police officers shot and killed a black farmworker in a convenience store in September, touching off a wave of protests against the department's policy on the use of deadly force. An investigation concluded the officers were justified in shooting James Bostic, but local black leaders are still planning a lawsuit against the city.

A lawsuit was filed against the city of Leesburg this spring, demanding single member voting districts in the city. Blacks who filed the suit claimed the system, which elects city commissioners on an at large basis, discriminates against the black population. The two sides are trying to settle the case out of court.

But not all the news in 1983 was bad. Local school boards took steps to improve the quality of education. Businesses poured time and effort into revitalizing downtown areas. Lake County finally established a courthouse annex in Clermont, to save people a lot of driving.

Readers followed the story of young Chris Worley's courageous but tragic fight against cancer.

There were stories that made us laugh. And made us cry.

This was 1983.

LOCAL STATE

Tower Chemicals

The scene at the abandoned Tower Chemical Co. site looked like a set from an old "B" movie: men in contamination-proof suits gathered soil and water samples, being careful not to even breathe the air. But for homeowners near the property in South Lake County, the visions were all too real.

In June, the Environmental Protection Agency finally began the cleanup of the area, which two years before had been placed on the original list of the nation's most hazardous waste sites. Water and truckloads of soil were removed from the property after DDT and other poisonous chemicals were discovered filtering through the soil toward the Florida Aquifer, contaminating nearby drinking wells. The cleanup continues today.

However, Tower Chemical wasn't the only thing to worry about.

After years of government approved application, state Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner banned the use of the pesticide Temik in orange groves in 1983 when traces of the chemical showed up in drinking water in Lake County. After a short moratorium, Temik is again being used in Lake County with new controls.

Shortly after Temik was found in the water, ethylene dibromide or EDB, also showed up in drinking wells in South Lake County. Testing for EDB is still going on. Hazardous levels of EDB have been found in 50 wells already. As more wells are tested, more tainted water is expected to show up.

Schools Upgrade

Local school boards came a long way in improving the quality of education. They raised their expectations of students and cracked down on drug use. They renovated and added to school buildings. And they received encouraging results from new tests designed to find out exactly what students have learned and what they haven't.

Freeze

At the peak of a year of expected recovery for the county's citrus industry, a blast of arctic air found its way past our border during Christmas. Growers across Florida say that the weekend of constant sub-freezing temperatures damaged a substantial amount of fruit and may have cost them as much as $200 million. No one knows for sure.

The Florida Citrus Commission voted to impose a week-long embargo, beginning on Monday, January 2, on fresh fruit leaving the state. Legislators are asking the federal government to declare Florida a disaster area, so growers can recoup some of their losses.

It was the third killer freeze in the last four years.

Nature Strikes Back

A worldwide disruption in weather patterns blamed on "El Niño", warm water currents off South America, caused global havoc. In the United States, the warm currents contributed to devastating winter storms earlier in the year that caused 21 deaths and more than $500 million in damages along the California coast.

The warmest winter in 25 years in the Northern Hemisphere gave way to the wettest spring on record in much of the nation. Spring flooding in the Mississippi Valley left thousands homeless and caused eight deaths in Louisiana and Mississippi. A second round of flooding in arid Arizona in September killed 13.

1983 also brought a summer heat wave that claimed 230 lives and the worst Midwest drought since the 1930s. In August, Hurricane Anita hit Texas, leaving 22 dead and $1.2 billion in property damage. It was followed by a series of autumn blizzards that dumped record snowfalls from the Rockies to the Great Lakes, followed by a killer freeze in the South and at least 400 dead.

VOL. CXXXIII....No. 46,043

—NEW YORK, TUESDAY, MAY 15, 1984—

30 CENTS

NATION Beirut Marines Massacred

It was about 6:20 on a peaceful Sunday morning in October. The Marines of the U.S. peacekeeping force were sleeping in their barracks at Beirut International Airport when a suicide truck barged past the startled guards. In seconds it blew up with the force of a ton of TNT, collapsing the building.

When the body count was over, 240 had died, dozens more in a similar bombing at a French encampment. The American Embassy had been leveled in another attack earlier in the year.

The toll raised questions about the U.S. presence in Lebanon, and whether a peacekeeping force could provide stability for the faltering Lebanese government while it tried to work out compromises between the country's many factions. President Reagan insisted that U.S. forces would remain until the job was done.

Grenada Stormed

American forces stormed the tiny Caribbean island of Grenada on Oct. 25, following the execution of Prime Minister Maurice Bishop. Eighteen Americans were killed during the surprise attack, which toppled Grenada's Marxist regime.

The purpose, according to the Reagan administration, was to ensure the safety of 1,000 Americans, most of them medical students. But political analysts said the invasion was also aimed at preventing Cuba from establishing a foothold in the Caribbean, and at sending a strong message to Fidel Castro and Soviet leaders.

The attack drew worldwide denunciation. But Grenadians were reported to welcome American intervention.

Left behind after the departure of the combat units from Grenada were about 1,000 U.S. support troops to rebuild bridges and roads. Grenada was promised American aid to help pay off debts incurred by Bishop, and to launch new road and agriculture projects to help ease unemployment.

The Economy

After 17 months of recession and an unemployment rate of 11 percent in 1982, a 40-year high, the economy began a broad recovery.

Industry was operating at 80% of capacity, up from 66% in 1982. The inflation rate rose less than 4%. Going into Christmas, retail sales were up 10 percent. Housing starts were up and the gross national product grew at a moderate pace even against a drop in American exports caused by the persistently strong dollar overseas.

The administration considered the recovery moderate enough to call for lower interest rates.

Much remained to be done. Nine million Americans were still out of work, and despite budget cuts and admonishments from economists at home and abroad, the deficit continued to hover just under $200 billion, threatening higher interest rates which could slow the economy again in 1984.

Watt Resigns

In his 2½ years as secretary of the Interior, James Watt's remarks had offended American Indians, Jews, liberals, and his favorite target, environmentalists. At length, at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast, Watt talked himself out of a job with a wisecrack about appointing "a black, a woman, two Jews, and a cripple."

That did it. Demands for his resignation mounted to a chorus. On Oct. 9, at a California ranch where he had gone to ride out the storm, Watt announced his resignation. William P. Clark was sworn in Nov. 21 as his successor.

SPACE

1983 also brought many advances in space. We launched the second space shuttle, The Challenger, on mission STS 10. The first woman, Sally Ride, and the first black in space along with the first trip into orbit by the European Space Station were all features of the STS 09 mission. The EST was held snugly in the payload bay of the Columbia for some 9 days — two days longer than originally planned. As part of STS 10 came the first free walk in space. Two members of the Challenger's crew donned "rocket packs" twice for untethered spacewalks. STS 10 also brought the first ever landing of the space shuttle at Cape Canaveral in Florida. 1983 was a "first" filled year in the realm of space exploration. Though it did have its set backs, like as the loss of two communications satellites that failed to rocket themselves into higher orbit on STS 10. 1983 was extremely successful for the space program, with 1984 looking even more promising. 1984's projects include the start of construction of the proposed orbital space station.

WORLD KAL #007 downed by Soviets

A Korean jumbo jetliner carrying 269 civilians was shot down by a Soviet fighter pilot after straying into Soviet airspace enroute from Anchorage to Seoul Sept. 1. The incident prompted a flood of international outrage and further chilled relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Electronic evidence showed that the Soviets had tracked the plane, a Boeing 747, for 2½ hours and had made visual contact with it before firing at least two heat-seeking missiles. At least one missile found its target. Flight 007 plunged into the Sea of Japan. Among the dead were 60 Americans, including U.S. Rep. Lawrence McDonald, an ultraconservative Georgia Democrat and chairman of the John Birch Society.

The Soviets offered no apologies, accusing the United States of using a civilian aircraft to conduct a spy mission.

How had the veteran South Korean pilot veered so far off course in a plane equipped with three sophisticated navigation systems? Why had the Soviet Union seen fit to destroy an aircraft readily identifiable as civilian? Who gave the order to fire? Many elements of the tragedy remained unclear.

Missile Deployed

The U.S. missiles were deployed in Western Europe, in response to a two-decades-long Soviet buildup of SS 20 missiles aimed at Western European targets. NATO's plan called for deployment of 108 Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany, Italy, and the Netherlands, and Belgium within the next three years.

Moscow rebutted the U.S. statements that the new weapons were deployed only to balance the Soviet missiles, and accused the United States of making a serious bid for military supremacy. Soviet leaders walked out of talks aimed at curbing medium-range missiles and suspended participation in arms control negotiations on long-range nuclear missiles and conventional arms in Europe. They also pledged to expand their own nuclear arsenal in Eastern Europe and under the sea.

Andropov Dies

Soviet President, Yuri V. Andropov, 69. The Soviet Union announced his death Friday February 10th. He had been the leader of the Communist Party for 15 months, ailing and out of public view for almost half of his leadership.

The announcement of his death ended six months of reports that he was seriously ill with kidney and heart problems and suffering from diabetes. He had not been in public since August 18, when he met with nine U.S. Democratic senators.

Andropov, former head of the KGB secret police for 15 years, took the leadership of the nation of 280 million people after the death of President Leonid I. Brezhnev on November 9, 1982, who had led the country for 18 years. In his brief term, Andropov presided over a nation locked in an escalating arms race with the United States and with a troubled economy.

Walesa Wins Nobel

The Nobel Peace Prize for 1983 came as a ringing tribute to the West and as an embarrassment to the Communist government of Poland. The prize went to Lech Walesa, shipyard worker and leader of the outlawed Solidarity labor federation.

Walesa called the award "a prize for Polish society and the Polish worker," the Polish government denounced it as a provocation by the Norwegian Nobel Committee.

BEGIN

He was born a Pole. He was once sent to a Siberian labor camp by the Soviets and emerged in the Middle East as the leader of the underground Irgun. After the bombing of Jerusalem's King David Hotel in the 1940s, in which 91 people died, the price on his head was 10,000 pounds sterling.

Menachem Begin, after years of political defeat, finally led his Herut party to victory in Israeli elections and for six years reigned as prime minister. He pushed West Bank settlements and invaded Lebanon, bombed Iraq's Osirak nuclear reactor and turned his jets against Beirut. Along the way, he survived several heart attacks.

Then, despite the rout of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Lebanon, the fruits of the Israeli victory began to spoil as Lebanon plunged into factional fighting and near-chaos. Begin finally resigned at age 70.

Considering LHS was by far the largest high school in Lake County it seemed only natural that we would receive the most generous support from the community. Well, did we ever! LHS has received thousands of dollars of support from the citizens of Leesburg. Not only do the businesses cheer for the football team, but they contribute to support LHS in many other ways. These establishments have been instrumental in the success of LHS. We are proud to have such a strong community behind us.

This book is offered to the students of Leesburg High School as a record of the year, for all students, not just a chosen few. We hope it brings back many fond memories both now and in the future.

Completion of the yearbook is very difficult. Please forgive us if we misspelled your name or neglected to mention you.

We would like to extend a sincere "thank you" to all the faculty and administration of LHS for all their support of the annual. Without their support we would never have made it through the year. We realize they tolerated innumerable class interruptions from underclassmen pictures to the seniors signing the senior signature sheet.

Thanks are also in order for the newspaper staff for enduring the incessant barrage of noise from our room to theirs and the constant fight for typewriters and pictures during 7th period. Thanks so much Mrs. Ogles, Eddie, Suzanne, Carol, Mary Kay, Joy, Helen, Wende, and Beth (the poor, abandoned, lost, and suffering Latin student).

To Mrs. Ryan we extend most sincere personal thanks for tolerating our continual "need copies ASAP" without complaint. Without her we would never have gotten our paperwork out on time.

To all our teachers, especially Mrs. Ciendinen and Mr. Dolca, for letting us out of class almost daily during deadlines, we offer our humblest gratitude. (And thanks for being so understanding.)

Needless to say, we would never have kept our sanity and made it through the year without Mrs. Ruth Lockett's continual support and words of wisdom. She guided us through the rough times. She never failed us. She always helped us to find better times. Thanks so much. Words will never express how much you helped us. You will not soon be forgotten.

I, (Brian), am also very grateful to George Savage for always being there to lend a helping hand when I needed him. He gave me many new and inventive ideas for the yearbook. You saved my life many times, my friend. (Thanks to your parents too!)

And I, (Olympia), express my sincere gratitude to the staff and especially Brian. Through many trying times the infamous La Torre staff has somehow managed to accomplish for me yet another successful yearbook. Finally, in these closing words, I would like to thank Mrs. Lockett, a sincere sponsor and true friend.

Finally, many times in the rush of deadlines we failed to give the staff the recognition they deserved. We now extend to them our appreciation for job well done. To yearbook parents also, we proffer our thanks for so graciously allowing their kids to stay after school and at "yearbook deadline parties" until all hours of the night in order to finish a deadline.

Now all our work has meaning. The terrors and tears have not been in vain. Our efforts have become reality.

With deepest gratitude and friendship.
